Quick References from shipper menu

The Mahyu warehouse system is connected with both domestic transport (distribution) and international transport (incoming international shipment) services, as well as payment options and our pre-alert notification system.

When a shipper searches for a warehouse location where Mahyu operates, they have the convenience of using the warehouse address as the delivery address when placing new warehouse service orders through the menu. This seamless integration streamlines the logistics process and enhances our pre-alert notification for all parties involved.
